C. Listen to the passage and tell whether the following statements are true or false (判断下列句子是否符合你听到的短文内容, 符合的用“T”表示, 不符合的用“F”表示)

It happened one spring morning. Eric woke up and went downstairs. His mum asked him if he wanted some orange juice. “Yes, thanks.” He replied, but his voice had changed! It sounded very deep. He was quite surprised, and so was the dog! But his Mum just smiled and said, “Oh, that's just your voice breaking.”

Breaking? That did not sound good! So at school that day, Eric asked his teacher what was happening.

“Don't worry. It's common. Sound is made by the mouth as air is pushed out through the voice box, which is in the neck. As we grow older, the voice box grows larger and thicker. When you are a teenager, there can be a sudden change.” The teacher said.

“But my sister is older than me, and her voice is still the same.” Eric said, a little confused.

“The change is much bigger in boys. Girls' voices only change a little, so it's hard to tell the difference.” The teacher said.

Now Eric likes his voice. But the dog still is not sure.

D. Listen to the passage and complete the following sentences (听短文, 用听到的单词完成下列句子。每空格限填一词)

The graduation season is coming. Grade 9 students are going to say goodbye to each other. It is really a sad moment for every student. But they have to accept the fact. In front of them, there is a much brighter future waiting for them.

Everyone must have a lot to say to their classmates at this moment. But where can they put all their warm words? In the past, students asked their classmates to write something on the notebooks. In fact, it was a very interesting way to keep the nice memories.

Now things are a bit different. Some students now use e-notebooks to keep what their classmates want to say to them. They can type in words, draw e-pictures or even make e-cartoons for each other.

But some students still like notebooks better. They say words in computers are cold. A notebook can keep classmates' handwriting. When they read and see the handwriting, they feel warmer.
